

On Wednesday May 11, 2011, The American Institute of Architects hosted a forum at Dillard University about the transformation of Elysian Fields Avenue which is located a few blocks from Dillard's campus. The AIA introduced their ideas of having Elysian Fields completely redone to include a bike lane, mural, farmers markets, a lushly planted neutral ground and small parks, among other things. To read the full article on NOLA.com, click here .