

Dillard University hosted a gathering of environmental representatives from Mexico, Canada and the US and the Commission of Environmental Cooperation to discuss resilient communities. New Orleans native Lisa Jackson, the US Environmental Protection Agency Administrator, was a vocal proponent for change.

Read more about the conference in the Louisiana Weekly...

---