

Dillard University president Dr. Walter Kimbrough will be part of a panel of New Orleans area university presidents discussing their responses to Hurricane Katrina during the National Conference on Race and Ethnicity in American Higher Education, taking place in New Orleans. Running from May 28 to June 1, 2013, the conference will have speakers from across the country. Tulane professor and MSNBC host Melissa Harris Perry will be one of several keynote speakers.

Read more about the conference here...

---